

when i was young i didn't worry 'bout home yeah my eyes were the lights on the window sill to the beat of my heart i was never alone i could shine the light of my own free will but you don't, oh you don't

so take me home, i'm not that kind of girl I know you think that you can leave me breathless, no i'm nothing like that girl i know it's alright but i'm done so take me home

home is a place that i go to still it's like a pebble on the map of the undone soul i never have to go any other where because i carry it around in my body and bones

so take me home

and the air it got so heavy you could almost taste it on your tongue how sweet and strong your river runs but oh i feel this displacement i've been blaming the rain but the flood it began in my basement larger than the earth and bigger than life and the heavens in your head you can't even grasp, but you follow her oh it's reverence you said now you know.... now you know

so take me home
