

come relax your worried head remember who you are and what your wisdom said you know all you need to know you have plentiful fields to reap and sow your beautiful loving and everlasting garden will grow close your weary eyes and rest i know the heart can carry such a heavy load and how the mind can make a mess but oh the soul will always lead you for whats best, it just is not a question of the speed of the direction the road is blessed and you hold everything you ever wanted true though meddling in your resistance at the door is never gonna help you

never gonna help you

you say you're tired and afraid well i can say that that's a place that i have been and you will find in your own way the very point of all the trouble that you're in, oh one, you're standing on your own two feet two, you are finding love in everything and who knew you'd see the light when you were in so deep?

you hold everything you ever wanted
true though meddling in your resistance
at the door is never gonna
help you
never gonna help you

one, you're standing on your own two feet
two, you are finding love in everything and
who knew you'd see the light when you were in so deep?

you hold everything you ever wanted
true though meddling in your resistance
at the door is never gonna

help you
never gonna help you
and love is all you need