

Scott Brantley Signs Endorsement Deal With Southern Lifestyle Apparel Company, Southern Sippin’

Studio Gold Nashville recording artist Scott Brantley has signed an endorsement deal with the southern lifestyle apparel company, Southern Sippin’.

Scott Brantley, the Georgia-based, fast rising country music artist has had an eventful year. From signing a publishing and artist development deal with Studio Gold, releasing his first single, “Good Thing Going”, to country radio worldwide, recently welcoming new son Whitley into the world with wife Kristen, and now signing an endorsement deal with his favorite apparel company, Southern Sippin’. Scott has long been a fan of Southern Sippin’ merchandise, sporting it throughout his career on stage, during media interviews, and as day to day wear.

Southern Sippin’ apparel features their southern lifestyle on T-shirts, hats, and koozies. Using the softest pigment-dyed shirts, they continue to get softer and softer with each wash. Southern Sippin’ apparel can be found in over 100 retailers in the states of Georgia, Alabama, Florida, Kentucky, Louisiana, Mississippi, Missouri, North Carolina, Oklahoma, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas, and Virginia. The complete list of retailers can be found at: www.shopsouthernsippin.com/retailers

“Southern Sippin’ is so honored that Scott Brantley loves our line. Scott is an amazing artist and a great person as well, and we could not be happier that he is taking us along on this ride. We know that everything that is coming his way is due to his determination and hard work. Southern Sippin’ is a family run business from Georgia, and Scott being a Georgia man, just makes for a perfect partnership!”
