

All concert venues, libraries, restaurants and taverns that feature live music have been shut down for the foreseeable future. The performers who depend on live concerts for their livelihood are facing significant loss of income. Many of these performers are turning to live-streaming to generate income and remain connected to their fans.

Please support these efforts and the performers whose music enriches our lives.

Long Island Concert Notes will suspend distribution for the duration of this pandemic.