Nashville Recording Artist Daniella Releases White Tee
Song combines Pop Country with EDM to create a new sound

“White Tee” is the new self-penned single by Nashville recording artist, Daniella. The song debuts her new sound – a fusion of Pop Country with EDM – or as she calls it, “Dirt Road Meets DJ.” “White Tee” sounds like a mix of Kelsea Ballerini and The Chainsmokers, and embodies that electrifying feeling of infatuation when you begin to fall head over heels for someone. Leonard Reyes of Wolf Country Radio (Sacramento) says, "I have listened to ‘White Tee’ about 20 times already. This is totally going to be a summer on the beach hit! The vocals are spot on and the sound is FIRE."

The vibey love song was written in the back of her RV “somewhere in the middle of America” as Daniella was making her way to Music City to put down roots. She had been traveling back and forth between SoCal and Nashville since the age of 17, when she first played songwriter rounds at the iconic Bluebird Café and Douglas Corner. Daniella released two singles to country radio (under the stage name Dannie Marie), and followed those up with multiple radio tours that included 40+ stations. She has played venues from coast to coast, including the legendary Viper Room in Hollywood and one of country music’s biggest festivals – Country Thunder. Daniella has now accumulated a loyal fanbase of over 15 thousand followers on Instagram.
