

I see my Ego

And the rain came down, washed us clean
we didnt even know it but the stars were shining on our way home

cause when the sun does shine for all you know
its a murky world you got to name the placement of your guns and pearls and its a chrome machine full of dreams

drowning me in its conception of reality

and this electric heat
its burning me
keep it out of conversation all i want, take

so follow me
its time you see the light
its a burning nation
its time that we must fight

and the tv stations
broadcast light
only place i can find stillness locked away tight

and the sea, the sea
how it pleases me
waves crash upon the station of insanity

its a burning nation

I see my ego
its having a fine time time dressed up now lets go
it walks a fine line line
