

Reporter

Country Guide Magazine is seeking a full-time reporter to write about farm business and management. As Canada's oldest farm publication, with roots dating back to 1886, Country Guide is about the business of farming, and providing farmers with strategic business thinking.

The successful applicant will demonstrate:

- Excellent writing and interviewing skills;
- Understanding of the dynamics of farm family business. The successful candidate will be passionate about the innovative solutions that Canada's farmers are developing to drive farm performance and achieve family objectives.
- Understanding of agriculture as it is practised across Canada;
- Ability to work independently of an office structure, yet willing to be part of a team;
- Post-secondary training in journalism, business or economics, or combination of relevant training and experience;
- Ability to prepare content for delivery through multimedia platforms.

Country Guide Magazine is a division of Glacier FarmMedia, Canada's largest agricultural print and digital publisher.
