

I Look Away

i'm a little one trapped alive in a lonely sun for the bough to break coming up against the rain

i feel right when i look away fell through the underground where nobody makes a sound past the moon and tides ended up the other side

the lights coming on all the people you will meet the moment after you'll swear you'll want to keep let each breath we take fill our hearts with holiday coming out of the coal mine would you kiss me tonight?

never think it's over time will come you're needed once again
