

You Have Time

you wake up on a white sand beach with news from the ocean floor a black hole's pourin' burning fire into the gulf of mexico

you have time to make it
you have time to let 'em know we're not going to take it we don't want oil anymore

you decide to make the quick drive home and you turn on the t.v. they're showing reel to reel to reel of the same atrocity

you have time to make it
we're not going to take it

they always have a dream to sell something that will take the place of you make your life a living hell the power of a few

as the many months go by some celebrities get involved we have to wonder why it takes so long for the problem to be solved

you have time to make it
we're not going to take it
