Andy Puechner likes to work in short bursts rather than long stretches. In 2016, his project Dutch Courage released a cassette single that paired two songs, “Louisa” and “Samba,” both united by their marriage of indie pop smarts and gentle Latin rhythms. Dutch Courage’s latest offering is a three-song EP whose title cut, “Tiger Tracks,” finds Puechner and company amping up a little more New Wave nerviness and employing some moves that fans of XTC and the Shins will recognize. The cassette release for Tiger Tracks is limited to ten only, so get to the show early if you believe physical artifacts trump digital streams.

Three’s a Crowd: Dutch Courage will be joined by John Donovan & the Ruby Troupe alongside a solo set from Vigilettes member Melanie Meyer.

The image shows a Bandcamp player interface. On the left is the album cover for 'Tiger Tracks' by Dutch Courage, featuring a tiger illustration. The main area displays the track '1. Tiger Tracks' with a play button, a progress bar, and a duration of 00:00 / 02:39. At the top right of the player are links for 'pre-order', 'share', and a 'bc' logo.
