

Stefanie Jasmine

Powerhouse vocals and a fierce stage presence, Stefanie Jasmine is making a name for herself in country music. And she's just getting started.

In 2012, she started the country cover band, Whiskey Wild. That band became New England's most popular country band in just several months. As lead singer from 2012 to 2015, she has performed at every premier venue in New England including Toby Keith's 'I Love This Bar & Grill' (Foxboro MA), Wally's (Hampton Beach, NH), and Loretta's Last Call (Boston, MA), among others.

In March of 2015, Stefanie had the honor of opening for country music star, Lee Brice. It was with that experience she was inspired to start working on her solo project. She says "Lee was so awesome, he gave me priceless advice on forming relationships with music professionals in Nashville, and encouraged me never to give up". Those relationships have enabled her to split her time between Nashville and New England, as she is currently writing and recording with Paul Rippee (Lee Brice, CMT Music Awards band, Sweet Eastern Saint). Music to be released in early 2016

Stefanie is a favorite among country music fans, as people flock to her shows to catch her energetic, dynamic performances. They come back for more. She commands the stage and engages with the crowd, making her shows a night to remember.
