

New York City
January 10, 1989

To Whom It May Concern;

Charles Prince is, without any doubt, a most remarkable young man. It has been my joy to teach him the craft, art, and psychology of conducting for the last 2 years.

In every way, he is preparing himself to become an outstanding conductor. I am certain that he will make valuable contributions to Our Wonderful World of Music.

He should be given every opportunity. You will be deeply pleased in your association with this fine human being.

Sincerely,

Jens Nygaard
Conductor
Jupiter Symphony
Naumburg Orchestra
Rutgers University Orchestra