Cassie McDuffey | Jazz Journey

Cassie McDuffey is a jazz vocalist and entrepreneur originally from Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania. She started singing at the tender age of 7 by singing in her church and in the community. Cassie's love of jazz began when, as a small child, she saw Ella Fitzgerald singing live. That moment forever changed Cassie and defined her love for singing jazz.

What sets Cassie apart from other vocalists is her ability to tell a story when she sings. With the use of unique phrasing, harmony and scat singing, her vocal delivery is refreshing and one-of-a-kind.

Cassie has performed with legendary pianists Billy Taylor, George Duke and saxophonist Najee. When not on the stage, Cassie is growing her career as an independent musician and singing with her church choir at Eastern Star Church in Indianapolis, Indiana. Cassie is currently working on her debut EP, titled Perfect Timing, due to be released in the fall of 2017.
