

Canyon Run Bio

Canyon Run is Bobby Vachon, Ally Vachon, Lynda Krieger, James Rago, and Bill (Chicken Willie) Camara. They formed in May of 2017. And have since made a name for themselves throughout New Hampshire playing Fairs, Festivals, Summer Concert Series, and Private Events.

The band has been classified by it's fans as Country/Americana with a touch of Bluegrass, and performs a mix of various covers and original material. Many of the Venues they perform at have said they are the most unique, captivating, and fun band that they've had perform.

There are several factors that lead to these comments from Venues and Fans.

The quality of their original material being in the forefront, the humor that they put into their shows, and the fact that from the beginning, the band opted not to have a drummer. Why not have a drummer? Simple, They use a Cajon, tambourines, shakers, and their secret weapon "The Thumper". (You'll have to catch a live show to know what that is.) All of these various percussion instruments fulfill their needs. Another secret recipe to this bands success are their tight three and four part harmonies.

The bands instrumentation consists of Acoustic guitars, Mandolins, Bass, Harmonica, Flute, and percussion.

They have released several singles, and are constantly writing and recording their material in their private recording studio. Canyon Run is influenced by such artists as Steve Earle, Alison Krauss, and Fleetwood Mac.
