Soul Searcher

*have you found what you're looking for Staring into mirrors at some ghost of who you were before
And how long until you're satisfied*

*Your faith lays shattered on the floor
In midnight hours, dream catchers mark your doors
Are you afraid of someone stealing you dreams or Just afraid because they're yours
You'll fight the moonlight, pack your bags and fly
Why not hold your ground instead of blaming the world for your troubles
now*

Soul Searcher

Staring into mirrors at some ghost of who you were before
And how long until you're satisfied, how long until you're satisfied*

*You'll only lay down when you're far from home
There's no way you'd give your freedom to be alone
Are you so desperately scared of holding on Or just addicted to being gone
You'll fight the moonlight, pack your bags and fly
Why not hold your ground instead of blaming the world for your troubles
now*

Soul Searcher

Staring into mirrors at some ghost of who you were before
And how long until you're satisfied, how long until you're satisfied (how long until you're satisfied) with what's in your mind
What's in heart, what's your soul
Oh how long will you run until you find that you've been home all along*
