

HOW

*My whole life has been wrapped around your finger
And every move you made, I just followed suit
If you tapped away at my head, or my heart
I didn't care as long as I was with you*

*Now that thread has become unraveled and every inch of me is bare Stripped away of all I ever thought that I knew
And left alone with the walls that stare*

*How will I ever let go
Just walk away like nothing is wrong
How will I ever find another
When it's you who's been here all along*

*In my head I'm still in your arms
Wrapped tight, safe, and warm
You could squeeze the life right out of my lungs
But I'd still believe that you could do no harm*

HOW

*How will I ever let go
Just walk away with my head held high
Cause my heart has never felt so tired
Running after someone who just wants to leave me behind*

*How do I go on
When your smile says I was never the one*