

Living Light

Biography

Entrancing dub and body-moving uptempo electronic opuses are the hallmark of the Living Light sound, blending global beats, indigenous voices, swirling symphonic melodies, and a dash of psychedelia that has lit up audiences coast to coast.

Eartha Harris began her music career at a young age, learning to produce electronic music in high school and continuing at Bard College at Simon's Rock, when she joined the touring goth industrial electronica group "The Machine in the Garden". Harris embarked upon her first electronic solo project titled "Project Sphere" from 1999-2006 and then joined the pioneering live electronic jam band hybrid Psylab as full time keyboardist from 2007-2012. During this time she performing at such world renowned festivals and venues as the Chapel of Sacred Mirrors, Burning Man, Rock n' Roll Resort, The Paradise Rock Club, and Sullivan Hall NYC., and releasing one full length studio album and many live albums with the band.

Harris officially launched her Living Light project in late 2012 and now has over 40 tracks under the Living Light name, including a #1 Beatport chart-topping full length album, one full length remix album, and two EP's released on Desert Dwellers' Desert Trax label, compilation appearances on Merkaba Music and Sofa Beats labels, and dozens of official remixes for Papadosio, CloZee, Wildlight, Desert Dwellers, AtYya, David Starfire, Ayla Nereo, and many more heavy-hitters in the festival circuit.

Harris has been touring from coast to coast with Living Light since it's inception in 2012, appearing at such notable festivals as Burning Man, Beloved, Envision (Costa Rica), Sonic Bloom, Enchanted Forest Gathering, Lucidity, Cosmic Convergence (Guatemala), Geoparadise Tribal Gathering (Panama), Earthdance, Kinnection Kampout, Arise, and this summer Pirate Party and Oregon Eclipse, to name just a few.

On top of her busy touring schedule, Harris is a certified yoga instructor and nutritional therapist. She shares her wealth of knowledge with nutritional workshops, engaging yoga clinics, and online coaching in between high-energy performances. Sometimes you can find her doing all three at a single festival.

The next Living Light album, "The Great Attractor", slated for a 2018 release, will strike a balance between uptempo dance and psydub focus while maintaining its connection to that classic Living Light sound.

The name "Living Light" has multiple interpretations, and simultaneously refers to living non-materialistically, maintaining a positive outlook, and all life originating from star-stuff.
