

Living Light

Biography

LIVING LIGHT / Desert Trax / Re:Evolution
Entrancing dub and body-moving uptempo electronic opuses are the hallmark of the Living Light sound, blending global beats, indigenous voices, swirling symphonic melodies, and a dash of psychedelia that has lit up audiences coast to coast.

Eartha Harris officially launched her Living Light project in 2012, having spent half a decade behind the keyboards in the pioneering live electronic hybrid Psylab. She now has three full albums, a remix album, and two EP's under the Living Light name, her most recent released in 2018 on Desert Dwellers' Desert Trax label, in addition to compilation appearances on Merkaba Music and Sofa Beats, and official remixes for Papadosio, CloZee, Wildlight, Saafi Borthers, Desert Dwellers, AtYya, David Starfire, Ayla Nereo, and many more heavy-hitters in the festival circuit.

The next Living Light album, "Supernova", slated for a 2019 release, will feature uptempo house and dub techno influences while maintaining its connection to that classic Living Light sound.

The name "Living Light" has multiple interpretations, and simultaneously refers to living non-materialistically, maintaining a positive outlook, and all life originating from star-stuff.