

B L A M E

People change

They never stay the same

And people leave

Leave you forgetting how to breathe

Then they say that

This isn't me

Well I'm not you

Does it hurt to hear the truth

What happened to the times before

When I didn't think that I was more

Than a collection of lost thoughts and words

Didn't you think it hurt?

Why are we different

You never wanted to listen

Oh no, no I'm to blame

I'm sorry, so sorry

but I was never yours to save

And, now I've changed and you're looking to trade

For who I used to be

It's funny you can't see

I never wanted

To lose myself

I'm getting tired of how I felt

The pain inside what it did to me

fought so hard to feel free

Your words they sting I can't even stay

You make want to break

Why are we different

You never wanted to listen

Oh no, now I'm to blame

I'm sorry, so sorry

but I was never yours to save

Our thoughts collisions

Our words decisions

Our actions convictions

Please tell me that you'll listen Why are we different

You never wanted to listen Oh no, now I'm to blame

I'm sorry, so sorry

but was never yours to save

Now I'm to blame

Now I'm to blame