

Burnin' Daylight

Just one day spent like many others in some same old way beneath the covers while the promise of some hours you'll remember drift away seize that day and every waking minute

Never burn a single day
Don't dare let it slip away
You're burnin' daylight

Hold on, hold, on don't let go
you're burnin' daylight
Keep the sun in sight
You should be all right

What's the cost?
A single day burnt is too great a loss
You could count the hours

Hold some line and slow the wave of passing time hold on blink, it's gone so keep your eyes wide open

Never miss a single ray Don't just let it slip away
Never burn a single day.
