

Just Give Me Tonight

The sun has set and going to bed
But the music of you is still in my head
To all the world, may be just a show
But to me what you mean, you'll never know

We've been passing by, like ships on the sea
Similar paths, just not meant to be
When i lay down at night thinking of you
I can't help but wonder if you want to hold me too

But your heart belongs to another
And I'll try to keep mine under cover
But I just don't want to fight, or deny it anymore
That I want to see you walk through my door
Just give me tonight
