JW-JONES – SHORT BIO

Billboard Top 10 Blues Artist, IBC Winner and JUNO Nominee, Canadian singer/guitarist JW-Jones is known for his high-energy shows!

The improv magic you hear on Jones' new album (his 10th), Live, is the spark that has awakened new sonic frontiers for the veteran Maple Blues Award-winning bluesman. Produced with 2018 Grammy Winner Zach Allen (for his work on Taj Mahal & Keb Mo's 'TajMo'), Live is raw, real, and from the heart – an album for the ages that captures the JW-Jones lightning in a bottle.

With the last JW-Jones studio project, the Colin Linden-produced 'High Temperature', capturing the coveted Memphis Blues Foundation's International Blues Challenge honours, the frequent resident of Billboard's Top 10 Blues charts and roots radio favourite continues to accelerate his career momentum to new heights, whether it's as a personally-requested sit-in with the likes of blues legend Buddy Guy (6 times), opening for blues-rock icons Johnny Winter and George Thorogood or entertaining thrilled audiences in 23 countries and four continents.

Buddy Guy says "This young man is one of the people who will keep the blues alive". Eager to live up to this endorsement from the world's most famous living bluesman, Jones is excited to bring his music to generations to come.
