

“The Big Dream”

Written and Arranged by

Jeff C. Baker

Good intensions, choose your path
And so you follow to please your Dad
And you will study science and math
And be an engineer ‘cause music, well, “there’s no money in that”

And so it goes the choices are made
You’ll get a job when you graduate
And so you wait on the Big Dream

Schools and summers come and go
Jobs, wives and children will follow
Business cards say who you are
Status and stuff, boy you’ve come so far

Years roll by ‘til it all breaks apart
The tears in her eyes, you broke her heart
And now you begin a brand new start

Let the sun shine in
Warms your heart to dream again
Just like when you were a kid
Before life interrupted it

Time to start, start right now
You don’t know how It’ll all work out
It’s not too late to chase your Big Dream