Our lives roll on as the light shifts between the seasons. From full band to intimate arrangements, this collection of songs offers up some hope, comfort and clarity.

Co-produced by Toronto roots rocker Mark Ripp and Meg Tennant, this album has a full, warm sound that settles in around Meg's voice, and carries the listener along through a northern winter break-up (Silence & Snowbanks), a long walk through the woods (Let's Walk This Road), some encouraging words (Not Done Yet), and the loss of a loved one (Shine a Light on Us - a song that includes a choir of relatives and friends).

Originally from Northern Ontario, Canadian folk/roots songwriter Meg Tennant currently lives in Toronto after spending several years in BC. She has performed at festivals and showcases in Ontario and BC, and has opened for the likes of Tom Russell and Eliza Gilkyson at Vancouver's Rogue Folk Club.

"...this sweet-voiced artistically mature singer-songwriter might come as a revelation to many." —Roots Music Canada

"...music with heart, and songs from the place we all aspire to connect with..." —Cash Box (Can.) & Record World (USA)
