To whom it may concern:

I am writing on behalf of Scrap Arts Music who recently performed in Jackson Hall as part of the 2003-2004 Season at The Robert and Margrit Mondavi Center for the Performing Arts, UC Davis. Scrap Arts gave one public performance and one school matinee performance and both were received with absolute exuberance by our audiences. Experiencing the one-of-a-kind sounds of their handcrafted instruments may in itself be worth the ticket price. However, they complete the experience with well choreographed, well crafted and well performed pieces, that are artistically interesting and accessible enough to have great appeal and great value for school audiences and public audiences alike.

Personally, I consider Scrap Arts Music to be among the best of what we've presented on our Family Series in recent years, and I am convinced that they would be successful in any forum, whether targeted to family audiences or not.
