Other Notes:

If your board is within 30 ft. of the front of the stage, and has a ¼ inch output, the singer may ask to run it to her pedal board (located at vocal mic) for in-ear monitors. Sometimes, if an XLR to ¼ In.

Converter is present, an XLR cable may be run from a monitor output on the board to the singer's pedal board in-ear-monitor-box. This feature isn't required, though it allows the regular monitors to be less relied upon, which in turn lowers the stage volume.
