Special Directions concerning the Set-Up for this unique rescoring.

From the Wind Ensemble, the Wind Orchestra Parts as originally scored are isolated as the “Orchestral Winds”.

A separate section made up of instruments designated STRING Clarinet 1-2-3, STRING Saxophones, STRING Bassoon, Contra Bassoon, STRING Euphoniums and 2 STRING Synthesizers comprises the STRING Section. This STRING Section should be positioned as a separate entity and in the case of recording, recorded in a manner which creates a different reverberation and stereo field placement. The goal is to emulate the positioning and reverberation of the Orchestral String Section.

The players of these parts must realize that they are playing STRING parts and as a result, the use of String notation is still in effect. The Musicians playing these parts should try as best as they can to emulate the playing of strings. It is also important that on staggered breathing. All staggered breathing should be determined in advance by the players themselves.

In the event of there being only one player per part, breath should be taken as needed by either breathing after the 1/8th note (in long passages), or by dropping a 1/16th note where needed. The more random, the better.

The New String Section will be assisted by the use of 2 Synthesizers playing the rich string sounds available in today’s arsenal of modern day equipment. These sounds will join the PAD Bass Sound System in the Stereo Surround Field.

Enjoy and Godspeed!
