

SILENTLY

© Anouschka Pearlman

Another night in a sleepless town
He lays his soul and his whiskey down
A thought of you might pass him by,
And spin his heart around
Silently he watched you walk away
Silently he let those feelings fade
Silently he keeps memories at bay
But does he come out unscathed?

The bed is made of chrome,
And those motel walls are stained
There's a Bible by the bedside, but no God,
No God to ease his pain
Darkness please be kind to him,
Because you see,
He's the man I love even if he don't love me
Silently I watched him walk away
Silently, I let those feelings fade
Silently, I keep memories at bay
But do I come out unscathed?

In a better time,
Or a world more fair
I'm sure he could have loved me
If he'd never cared
For the smell of her perfume
Or the way she fills a room
With more promises than me
Silently we watch the ones we love walk away
Silently we let those feelings fade
Silently we keep memories at bay
But do we come out unscathed?
