

NOTHING LEFT

© 2013 by Heather Pierson

Chorus:

There is nothing left here for me
Nothing for as far as my crying eyes can see
There is nothing left for me here
Nothing that's worth me shedding another tear

An aching heart and a restless mind
Are all I have left to leave behind
I'll blaze a trail to parts unknown
And hope at last I'll find my true home

But this blue world is vast and cold
So search I must 'til I have struck gold
And sing my song that's mine alone
And drink these tears deep down into my bones

Chorus

When I first saw your smiling face
All of my sadness left not a trace
But then you cut me down to my core
And now I don't sleep soundly anymore

When I first took you to my heart
I never dreamed you would tear my world apart
But now I know the awful truth:
That faithful friends are a rare and numbered few
