

AWARD WINNING NATIVE AMERICAN SINGER/SONGWRITER PACO FRALICK

Paco Fralick is a contemporary Ojibwe Singer/Songwriter. His original music is a unique blend of country, folk, pop and Native Americana. His powerful lyrics touch on subjects such as alcoholism, homelessness, environmental activism, seven-generation thinking, as well as other subjects close to his heart. Many of his songs were inspired by dreams. He is a multi-instrument musician playing acoustic guitar, fiddle, piano and Native flute.

*F*ralick's debut album, "Letting Go" released in May 2017 won several awards including:

2017 Unsigned Only – Semi-Finalist

2017, 2018 Indian Summer Music Awards – Five Time Winner

2018 Native American Music Award- Song of the Year 'Women & Water'

2019 Global Music Award- "Best of Show, Break Through Artist, Lyrics & Songwriting"

Fralick has been fortunate to share the stage with Keith Secola, Michael Bucher, Jan Michael Looking Wolf, Wade Fernandez, Pura Fe, Floyd Red Crow Westerman, Switchback, Bobby Bullet St. Germaine, Mitch Walking Elk, Nicholas Barron, Kelly Jackson, Cody Blackbird Band, Larry Long, and others.

"This contemporary Native American Ojibwe singer/songwriter excels with lyrics and vocals that are original, authentic and speak of the world of everyday people. He is a profound artist in the tradition of Guthrie & Dylan."

Global Music Awards

"It's rare to meet a person who has been able to translate his life experience into melodies that genuinely touch and resonate with all people. Paco Fralick is one such individual. He has woven his experience of walking in many worlds, native, non-native, spiritual, and ordinary, into a personal and heartfelt sound. It is refreshing to hear honest lyrics delivered with a passion and gentleness. That is Paco Fralick."

Switchback

"Paco sold out his show at our theatre, and filled the stage with an impressive network of talented musicians. His musical style is heartfelt and genuine, with emotional highs lows that show a genuine passion for storytelling. Paco can captivate an audience. "

Jim Nuttal, Director Nicolet College
