

Conversations With The Moon

Written by Jeff Berkley

The moon goes up two hemispheres
Same light there is glowing here
Neath' the hunter's guide, I'll meet you there
Not so alone, not so scared

So dial me up and tune me in
And I'll be back home again
No matter where I'm bound
When the sky is black and you are blue
We'll have an incandescent view
And I'll be right there next to you
Conversations with the moon

The sound of your voice gives you away
It'll be alright by the light of day
Baby, please don't cry, I'm in the sky
And I'll be home by and by

Chorus

I know you're lookin' out your window
And I'm on that long and lonesome road
The man in the moon will patch you through
Just hold the phone up to your soul

Chorus
