

You Thief

© 2019 Bryan Fogelman (SOCAN), Jack Boomer (SOCAN)

Deep browns and dark brows around her eyes
I watch you paint her beneath blue skies
Soft reds and purples you curve her lips
I see her smiling when you kiss

God how I want you, I want you again
Damn you, why did you let summer end?
You thief you stole my September
Took all my colours to give her

Violets and lilacs caress her neck
I watch you paint her before sunset
Yellows that shimmer through her hair
You leave me stranded standing there

God how I want you, I want you again
Damn you, why did you let summer end?
You thief you stole my September
Took all my colours to give her

God how I want you, I want you again
Damn you, why did you let summer end?
You thief you stole my September
Took all my colours to give her
You thief, you stole my September
Took all my colours to give her