

Pages In Between

M. Lambert

It hit me like a flash just like a bolt out of the blue
The Girl that you've been seein' while I was missing you I guess I should have known but I just looked the other way
The truth that I was searchin for was written on your face Like a paperback you've read before Look again, you just might discover something more
There's pieces of me pieces of me that you've never seen Pieces of me, pieces like the pages in between
The book of my life's open if you ever care to read
There's pieces of me pieces of me, that you've never seen Tell me what you're searchin for what you had hoped to find the thrill of the chase a warm embrace or maybe piece of mind but there is one thing you should know while passion burns so hot everything you think I am is just what I am not and if you think I'll always want you near, think again, just turn around, I might disappear
There's pieces of me, pieces of me that you've never seen
Pieces of me, pieces like the pages in between
The book of my life's open if you ever care to read
There's pieces of me pieces of me, that you've never seen
and if you think I'll always want you near, think again,
just turn around, I might disappear
There's pieces of me, pieces of me
that you've never seen
Pieces of me, pieces like the pages in between
The book of my life's open if you ever care to read
There's pieces of me pieces of me, that you've never seen There's pieces of me, pieces of me
that you've never seen
Pieces of me, pieces like the pages in between
The book of my life's open if you ever care to read
There's pieces of me pieces of me, that you've never seen
That you've never seen
That you've never seen
That you've never seen
