

Last One Worthy

I woke today with the sun shining down
And I breathed in new mercies once more
I felt like a rich man with more than his share
Like I'd not been a beggar before

But if you knew my past, you might never believe
When you see me now how far I've come
I'm a brand new creation, the work of salvation
So believe me, it's nothing I've done

CHORUS:

I'm the last one worthy and the first one grateful
To even walk through the doors of this place
So don't let me ever think I could belong here
I know who I am without grace

But I love the heart of the Savior who leans
To the guilty, broken and hurting
Who would willingly go all the way to the cross
Just to die for the last one worthy

If you knew the heart behind walls I had built
I was crippled with shame by my sin
Then you'd understand this great joy that I have Now that Jesus has taken me in

Who could know more about grace than the one
Who most needed God's mercy divine
So for all of my sorrows, God filled my tomorrows
With a hope that I thought I'd never find

REPEAT CHORUS
