"I met Sue Shann at the SERFA conference in 2016 and she gave me two of her CDs. "You Reap What You Sow" grabbed me immediately. I loved the melody, especially on the bridge. I love to invite audience participation and the chorus was catchy, singable and the entire song resonated with me as a positive message about doing your best at whatever you do and reaping the rewards or fruits of your labors. One could also interpret the song to mean caring for others and nurturing relationships, in particular keeping your word and your commitments and that this will be returned to you in kind. I heard it clearly in my mind as a bluegrass song and sought out the best of bluegrass talent for the recording. The song also fits beautifully with the overall theme of my upcoming CD Facets of Folk, which has several socially conscious songs, some songs about being a better person and considering how we treat others, as well as some favorites and new discoveries written by contemporary songwriters." ~Mara

QUOTES

"Some people, like the one described in Leonard Cohen's classic song, are born with a Golden Voice. Mara Levine is one of those gifted few who fits that definition. Hearing her sing makes you stop whatever you are doing and LISTEN! Known for her warmth, sincerity and impeccable natural musicality, she makes us all listen more intently, & celebrate the beauty that she brings to every song she sings and inspire us to do better ourselves, in whatever field we work in. Try to go to hear her live or listen to anything she has done or does. Mara Levine's beautiful CD "Jewels and Harmony" makes it possible to celebrate excellence in the art of jewelry making and singing. Beauty is in the eye of the beholder when you see Mara's stunning designs, and in your ear and heart when you hear her sing. ... Thank you, Mara for what you have done and continue to do.

- David Amram

composer, conductor, multi-instrumentalist

"Mara, I think you are one of the best singers of your generation. Every songwriter worth their salt should be sending you their tunes. You have such a beautiful, timeless quality to your voice and you make beautiful recordings. I just LOVE what you do."
