

ALWAYS KEEP A UKULELE IN YOUR TRUNK

as you roll along with the sun on your back you might go astray and run off the track and when that sun goes down you might fall into a funk so always keep a ukulele in your trunk

always keep (always keep) a ukule (a ukule) le in your trunk (le in your trunk) that's what I say (that's what I say) don't fill that space with tires and junk always keep a ukulele in your trunk if you've got a friend who's feeling blue there's only one sound that will do do do every frown in town loves to hear that plinky plonky plunk so always keep a ukulele in your trunk

if your gonna to have one why not have one more and if you have a pair why not three or four they make everything sound happy even heavy metal and punk that's why you should always keep a ukulele in your trunk

always keep (always keep) a ukule (a ukule)
don't fill that space with maps and jacks and boots and hats and tires and junk always keep a ukulele in your
