

EMOTIONAL ROBOT

D

let me tell you a story 'bout a robot with a heart

Bm

tried to be a calculator but he just didn't fit the part

G

tried algorithms trigonometry and other complex math

D

A

but all those operations didn't make him cry or laugh

D

his friends all wanted him to come out and play

Bm

they loved finding prime numbers and assembling microwaves

G

but this robot thought that that sameness was lame

A

he did not want to join in thier mechanical games 'cause

rusty when he cries

D

nobody understood that robots could feel sad

Bm

so nobody answered his personal ad it read

G

robot seeking robot to share sunsets on the beach

A

will he always be alone is love just out of reach?

D

that's all we know about the robot that cared

Bm

but that moody machine is still out there somewhere

G

and with robots making brand new robots every single day

A

let's hope he finds true love and he hears me when I say

D

Bm

people don't think robots can feel sorrow, glee or fear

D

but don't be surprised if one day your computer sheds a tear
