

Offbeat Style Hitting All The Right Notes

Born and raised in the heart of Nashville's music community, celebrity stylist and model Payton Kemp launched her career at the historic Ryman Auditorium at the age of eighteen. Her aesthetic eye and eclectic collection of talents has since carved a lucrative path, that includes acting, modeling and writing in addition to her own personal style brand, The Payton Project. Payton's award-winning client list boasts the likes of Beck, Diana Ross, Stevie Nicks, Rod Stewart and Diana Krall, along with numerous contestants from The Voice and American Idol. A natural both in front of and behind the camera, she has appeared in several films and TV shows and the Nashville Fashion Week campaign. Her writing has been published on Zooey Deschanel's "Hello Giggles" website and the Australian fashion site HerCatwalk, along with her own personal fashion blog, "Payton Place."
