

It's Christmas (The Cookie Song)

1.

I've probably gained 10 pounds, oh my head is spinning
From the abundance of sugar I've had in the last few days
The house is overwhelmed by tinsel and little bows
Paper trimmings every time I turn around
We've received enough cards to open our own Hallmark
Any day I'll be an honor at the local Walmart
The sales are too good, good thing it's just once a year
And the only excuse we need is it's Christmas

Chorus

Who's counting pounds with so many good things around
I'll clean the house later and go shopping instead
Then go through all the greeting cards again
It only comes but once a year
Think I'll enjoy myself for awhile
So pass another cookie please
It's Christmas now

2.

The yard has so many lights Lord come January
It will take a ream of paper to print our light bill
I think I see family driving up out in the yard
If there's more coming they'll have to sleep in their cars
Got no room in our kitchen for another apple pie
Today I've been to Kroger at least five times
