

ABOUT

Scottish artist Fenris is a multi-instrumental musician and songwriter with roots in the thriving Glasgow music scene.

Owing more of her musical development to synaesthesia than sheet music, Fenris creates original music characterised by open-tuned guitars, brooding synths, and grungey vocals.

2018 saw a mini tour through central Europe followed by a collaboration with acclaimed writer/ artist duo Dave Cook & Craig Paton to produce a synthwave soundtrack for their award-winning cyberpunk series, Killtopia. Following the great experience of this collaboration and being already well established in the local live scene, Fenris has been seeking more opportunities to co-create as well as support other artists, becoming involved in several groups & musical networks.

This has included regular appearances at the Southside Sessions and associated festivals run by local legend Crawford Smith, SongSeeds (songwriting groups run by Becci Wallace and Rosie Bans) and the regular Women Producers Meet, as well as helping to host & moderate a hugely successful Sunday Songwriting group which was set up during lockdown.

In My Head is out now; the first single of a forthcoming EP set for release in 2021, it describes the frustration of struggling to find the courage to speak your truth - but stopping just short every time.