

Alabama Woman : Channing Wilson
Key of A

A
I don't know what it is about that little town
D
that lies just north of Birmingham
A E
When the summertime comes rolling in
the boys hit town about 5 o'clock
D
a few hours before it's time to rock
A E A
to set the stage for a night of sin

A
About nine thirty when that sun goes down
D
all them girls come out to see the lights of town
A E dressed up like their trying' to make an old blind man see
A
when they hit that door the hearts starts breaking
D
that jager starts pouring and the room starts shaking
A E A
and there ain't no where else I'd rather be

Chorus:
D
there ain't nothin' in the world that I like better
A
than an Alabama girl in the hot summer weather
E shakin' what the good Lord gave and the devil taught her how to use
A
a good honky-tonk band plain' all night long
D ice cold beer 'till the early morning
A E A
with an Alabama woman how can I loose

A
I've been everywhere across this land
D
from New York city down to Texarkana
A E
and I an't ever found me no honey-hole quite like here
A
them California girls I've heard they're pretty hot
D
but the can't hold a candle to what I got A E A waiting' on me down in Dixie this time of year

Chorus:
