

Noreen and Spooks

In Action.....

Noreen Fenske of Jedburgh and her paint horse stallion Spooks Delta Dude recently competed at the very prestigious, first ever "Canada's Ultimate Cow Horse" competition in Saskatoon, held in conjunction with the second annual Saskatchewan Equine Expo Feb.15-17. Nine of the best cow horses in Canada competed in herd-work, reined-work and two fence runs, all in front of capacity crowds over two days to determine the overall champion and take home one of the richest payouts in Western Canada. Spook was one of the youngest and least experienced horses in the competition, this being his first competition as a six year old in the full traditional cowhorse bridle, and up against some very stiff competition, the best cow horses in Canada, and some very experienced professional trainers, also the best in Canada, he did very well. The stands were packed for the entire weekend and as usual, he found a few new fans in the crowd. We received lots of complements & comments and were proud to be the only horse in the competition trained and showed entirely by a non-pro.

Spooks Delta Dude finished up a great season in 2012 ending the year with awards from the Saskatchewan Reined Cow Horse Association for SRCHA Horse of the Year, Year end Champion Junior Horse (4&5 yr old horse, open to any rider), and Year end Reserve Champion for Non Pro Rider Class. Spook will once again be competing in Saskatchewan Reined Cow Horse events around the province throughout the summer in 2013, & anyone interested in coming out to watch or to join us in the fun is welcome to do so.
