Frequently Asked Questions

If I want to make / sell something not listed above, can you help with that?

The answer is usually yes. Anything that is shelf-stable and non-combustible is typically fine, so no food, things with batteries, weapons, or other kinds of items that the United States government might frown upon. We're happy to work with you to source and manufacture the product you are interested in selling. There's a huge world of products not included in this document ready to be customized to match your brand. Storage and fulfillment fees will be quoted in line with the prices shown for other similar products already for sale on Cotton Bureau.

Can I have products made and send them to you?

Absolutely. Other than our on demand and pre-order products, we're happy to work with any vendor you choose to source stock products. Please do let us know before you have a bunch of stuff made though so we can make sure it works for us.

How long does it take to produce items?

On demand products take 1–2 days under normal circumstances. Pre-order products are made and ready to ship within 3–4 weeks. Most stock products can be ready in 1–2 months, but some have timelines of up to 6 months or longer depending on the complexity of the design and manufacturing process.

How much do products cost?

On demand and pre-order products have zero upfront cost. Stock product pricing ranges all the way from items like stickers that cost pennies per item to custom manufactured items that require special tooling and processes which, of course, leads to costs at the higher end of the spectrum. Generally, we can provide a rough idea of costs on a per-product / as-needed basis. We're also happy to recommend a retail price that makes sense based on our experience with how similar products have sold in the past.
