Textbooks

An Introduction to the Mathematics of Financial Derivatives, 3rd Edition REQUEST EXAM COPY

This classic Salih Neftci title has been revised by Ali Hirsa, who accentuates its well-known strengths while introducing new subjects, updating others, and bringing new content to the table.

KEY FEATURES:

- Facilitates understanding of underlying mathematical and theoretical models by presenting a mixture of theory and applications with hands-on learning.
- Presented intuitively, breaking up complex mathematics concepts into easily understood notions
- Encourages use of discrete chapters as complementary readings on different topics, offering flexibility in learning and teaching
- New chapters and sections have been added covering in particular credit derivatives and jump processes and the associated partial integro-differential equations
- New material on numerical methods, in particular on Fourier techniques and calibration with added examples and exercises
- A 190-page Solutions Manual for Third Edition Exercises is available in three formats: PDF, LaTeX, and RAR

All book links in this email take user to the textbooks landing page, which lists both Ali Hirsa and Salih Neftci as authors; however, the Elsevier store product page doesn't list Neftci. Which is correct?

To keep all bullets in the active voice, delete the words "Presented intuitively" and replace with the words "Takes an intuitive approach,"

Delete the words "have been added covering" and replace with the word "cover"

Delete the words "is also" and replace with the words "has also been"

Add the words "at the" before the words "Courant Institute"

Recast the first two sentences into this one sentence (and italicize the title of the journal): "Editor of The Journal of Investment Strategies, Ali has written for several publications and is a frequent speaker at academic and practitioner conferences."

Add the word "the" before "University of Maryland"

Replace the word "at" with the words "of the"
