

Northshore Blog – Post 1

The Winter Wedding

By Kelsey Bricknell

There's no denying it, winter is upon us. The mornings are getting frostier and people can be spotted sun-seeking all throughout the day. At night it seems that there's nothing better to do than snuggle up to the ones we love; maybe light a few candles to try and bask in their glow while enjoying some good quality belly-warming food. This encroaching cool season really is the best time to spread a little love, but who ever said that you had to do all that from the confines of home. We love love at Northshore, so why not revel in this cosy, romantic season with us?

Enter your own winter-wonderland at Northshore and say "I Do" this winter. Spend the evening surrounded by dazzling candle light and frost-themed settings. Watch the stars dance in the glass-like reflection of the Brisbane River and feel like you're a million miles away from the cold grey tones of the city. At Northshore, we think that winter weddings are truly underrated events. It's almost as if people forget the joys of our tropical climate—winter in Queensland doesn't necessarily mean freezing...it just means less sweat! A winter wedding is memorable; it's unique. So if a one-of-a-kind day wedding is what you're after, call us to save your date today!

Still not convinced? Perhaps this will help:

Five Reasons To Choose A Winter Wedding At Northshore:

1. Winter Blooms:

Spring is the season for beautiful flowers, right? Not really. Winter blooms are perfect for all brides—from traditional tastes, to creative new-age types. Some of the most beautiful roses bloom best in winter and, teamed with snap dragons or evergreen agapanthus can make perfect classic pastel or colour rich bouquets. Hydrangeas come in so many colours that they can be tailored to suit even the most vibrant bridal party and, for the more earthy bride, baby kale is big in the flower world at the moment. It thrives in the colder weather and will have all your guests asking where you found such a unique, beautiful bloom.

2. Scrumptious Seasonal Delights:

Winter food is great for warming your body and soul. At Northshore we use only the freshest seasonal ingredients to create the perfect winter menu for you. Whether you want canapés, a three course meal rich with decadent winter-warmers, or a buffet meal, the talented chefs at Northshore can definitely warm your wedding party this winter.

3. Snowy Settings:

Want a true winter-wonderland? Create your own snowy oasis at Northshore, without the accompanying chill. Candles, lighting and earthy tones are the perfect way to warm your guests and help them experience the love you and your partner feel.

4. Unique Favours:

Give your guests a gift they can actually use. Personalise a small blanket, or provide candles with your wedding date engraved on them. A winter wedding is the perfect excuse to be creative with your favours—stand apart from spring brides and say thank you with a gift your guests can keep forever.

