In the latest edition of its Best Children's Hospital national rankings, issued Tuesday (June 21), U.S. News & World Report graded the University of Michigan's C.S. Mott Children's Hospital as one of the finest such facilities not only in the state of Michigan but across the country. The publication listed C.S. Mott as a top choice in eight of the 10 pediatric specialties that it considers for this annual survey, which it launched in 2007.

The hospital earned its best mark in Cardiology & Heart Surgery, where it placed seventh in the United States. with an overall score of 81.7 out of a possible 100. U.S. News & World report has a detailed scorecard about C.S. Mott's performance in this category. Highlights include the fact that it secured a "Very High" designation for transplant survival, with a perfect 6/6 in terms of relative survival at one and three years of age. U.S. News & World Report gave C.S. Mott the same "Very High" designation for the number of Norwood or hybrid surgeries. The hospital also earned numerous "Excellent" and "Above Average" scores for individual aspects of its work in Cardiology & Heart Surgery.

The other seven pediatric specialties in which C.S. Mott ranked are neurology and neurosurgery, nephrology, orthopedics, gastroenterology and GI surgery, cancer, neonatology, and pulmonology. As is true of Cardiology & Heart Surgery, U.S. News & World Report offers a scorecard that spotlights the hospital's performance in these specialties. In order to produce this annual, comprehensive assessment of the 10 pediatric specialties, the publication utilizes clinical data as well as survey information that it gathers from individual pediatric specialists.
