M. Troy Hudson joined NACVA® and the CTI® as a Continuing Education Specialist in July of 2017. He comes from an interesting mix of technical, management, and program experience working at times as a network administrator, but primarily as a trainer of both technical and soft skills for over 20 years. Beginning at WordPerfect Customer Support and Novel Technical Support, he moved on to deliver training as a Novel and Microsoft Certified Trainer, gaining great experience in certification credentialing and the process of continuing education, earning nearly every Microsoft networking certification at the time. He has trained adults in networking, data analytics, and cloud computer technology (Hadoop) as well as insurance and customer service.

This passion for continuous learning and validation through certification was further enhanced with a Bachelor of Science in Business/eBusiness from the University of Phoenix, Master's Certificate and certification from Villanova University in Business Intelligence, and currently a candidate for Master of Professional Communication at Weber State University (2018). Troy's master's thesis is on the effectiveness of social presence on webinars, which is well suited to his present position as the Webinar and CPE specialist at NACVA.

Troy's passions include time with his family: wife, ten children and two granddaughters, and parents; reading voraciously; constantly learning; and philosophizing. One day he plans to reach his lifetime goal of achieving a doctorate. He is also a long-time high school lacrosse official.
