How sadly have the fears awakened your last letter, dearest Aunt been realized, you told me that Emma wrote, "that she could encourage any hope of dear Rosa," yet I not give her up! and even now that dear letter is before me, which bears the sad testimony that our loved one is numbered with sorrows & difficulties assail us!

I wrote to dear Emma as soon as received your letter and hope she will me, as it would be some consolation to her all about poor dear Rosa. All that I have of her illness, was from you. — I hope that Sara was able to go to her, for altho' she was doubt surrounded by kind friends, it would soothe her last moments to have her of her child
