My precious Aunt

My thoughts ever casteth with you, seem to bring me nearer to you during the period of our Holy days, which are so tenderly associated with you in all the memories of past anniversaries, when at your side our prayers were offered up in thanksgiving or in humility to the throne of our heavenly Father. I have been looking wishfully for many days for a letter from dear Horace or yourself, as it is longer than usual since we have been blessed with tidings of my loved ones. I never hear from my poor dear Becky now except through Horace's letters. I know she cannot make the effort to write tho' I feel that her warm sad heart is as full of affection for me & mine as ever. I had a letter from Sara some time ago and hope to hear soon again as I have written to her. We are all enjoying perfect health, except our dear boy, who recovers very slowly from the effects of his attack of Typhoid Fever. Miriam is wearing long dresses, & looks quite like a young lady. Our dear Doctor is in excellent health, & sends his love to you, he hears more frequently from his family now, which is a great comfort to him. When you next write, do let me know how James Ehrlich is getting on, his Father is anxious to hear about him. Give our love to dear Sally & tell her that her Mother & sisters are well her sister Cecilia is looking as well as ever & has entirely recovered her health. We were sorry to hear of the Dr's indisposition. My husband & I join me in fond love to your dear Horace & to my sisters when you write to them. My prayers are that we may be permitted to meet again. Ever fondly
Miriam S. Cohen
