

Phila June 5th

My Dear Anna

I had the satisfaction to receive Adam's receipt from Miss O'Brien to pay for the safe delivery of your Book. The contents of which, what I hope please you. Miss Williamson has left nice turnups to the seams of your dresses, that should they require to be altered in that way, the difficulty will be lessened. Mr. Gosport regretted me to tell you, that a measure of the length of boots was a more reliable than the No. 1. Dear little Annina looked so diminutive that he feared there was a mistake.

We were taken by surprise much agreeably yesterday, by a visit from our dear Becky Nathan. She came out for a day - to see her two old loving aunts - and went home this morning. having left all her children there. you know what an effort of affection this must have been to her. who scarcely ever is seen abroad without having them around her. Becky looks well. and has all the freshness of feeling which characterized her youth. she was a general Pet in the family circle. and we all enjoyed her presence yesterday very cordially. all Sister Hays' first, and then the cousins collected here in the evening. and renewed old friendships. alas, how many near ones were missing!

on Tuesday evening I had the pleasure of seeing another near friend. in whose history I take the deepest interest.

Fanny Kemble, spent one day in Phil^a. her daughter Sarah spends the summer with picture him in home scenes of domestic happiness - Sister Mary & our brothers are well, and send you all affectional greetings - embrace my dear little girl for me - little only a token of fondness to Miriam, whose size and intelligence has outgrown her years - Love here to my Woodford nephews - and believe me ever ever very Affectionately Yours

Sister P. G.

Tell me if the things suit you - is the brown velvet ~~now~~ the shawls & shoes fit?